FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Community Futures South Fraser appoints Nicola Harris as Executive Director

Board selects a local entrepreneur and advisor to lead lending, mentorship, and small-business support across Chilliwack and Abbotsford

CHILLIWACK, BC — October 25, 2026 — The Board of Directors of Community Futures South Fraser is pleased to announce the appointment of Nicola Harris as Executive Director.

Harris is a Fraser Valley entrepreneur and organizational leader with more than 20 years of experience building organizations, developing leaders, and turning strategy into practical results. She knows Community Futures from several sides: first as a Self-Employment Program client, later as a contractor and program leader, and most recently as Program Lead for MYCommunityFutures, a province-wide PacifiCan-funded initiative. In that role she led a 24-person team that supported more than 2,200 entrepreneurs across British Columbia, and reported program results to the Board.

She has also worked directly with Community Futures South Fraser, leading Project Restart and supporting delivery of the Startup Challenge alongside the local team. She is the founder of Harris Consulting, where she advises founders and community organizations on strategy, operations, and leadership, and was co-founder of Culture Co., a marketing and culture development agency. Earlier in her career she led people and culture strategy for CBI Health Group across British Columbia. She serves on the board of the Fraser Canyon Hospice Society and previously advised the Women's Leadership Collective.

"Nicola understands both the entrepreneur and the organization behind the work," said Tonya Taylor, on behalf of the Board. "She has been a client, a program leader, and a business owner. She already knows this community and this network. We are confident she will lead Community Futures South Fraser with care, sound judgment, and a clear focus on the people we serve."

Community Futures South Fraser helps entrepreneurs and small and medium-sized businesses in Chilliwack and Abbotsford start, stabilize, and grow. The organization provides developmental lending, business advisory services, and mentorship, and is governed by a volunteer board of local business leaders. Harris will lead the organization in carrying out its 2026–2030 priorities, including entrepreneurial mentorship, lending, regional partnerships, and a more sustainable future for local business.

About Community Futures South Fraser

Community Futures South Fraser is a not-for-profit community economic development organization and part of the national Community Futures network. Since 1997 it has supported entrepreneurs in the South Fraser region through developmental lending, business advice, and mentorship, particularly where traditional financing is not an option. It is funded by Pacific Economic Development Canada and governed by a volunteer Board.